DISINFO: Baltic states provoking Russia by hosting foreign troops

SUMMARY

The Baltic states are beginning to provoke Russia in order to aggravate relations. A German brigade has been sent there to defend the (Suwalki) corridor [between Lithuania and Poland]. A scenario was drafted 10 years ago that these troops should suppress an uprising of the Russian population in Latvia. Such an uprising is being provoked now so that Russia intervenes and clashes with Germans. But NATO will say that it has nothing to do with it because it is Germany which is protecting Latvia.

RESPONSE

This is a recurring disinformation narrative from pro-Kremlin outlets accusing NATO member states of Russophobia and plans to attack Russia. This claim was made in the context of Russia's full-scale invasion of Ukraine.

The speaker probably confused Latvia with Lithuania because Germany and Lithuania signed an agreement in December 2023 on the permanent stationing of approximately 4,800 German soldiers in Kaunas and Vilnius beginning in 2024. The Baltic states have decided to invite Allied troops in order to protect themselves from a possible Russian invasion because many Russian politicians have issued direct threats to the Baltic nations (see here and here). Sweden plans to send an army battalion of 800 troops to Latvia in early 2025.

The Alliance does not want war with Russia. NATO is primarily a political organisation which aims at solving conflicts by peaceful means, but it can resort to force under certain circumstances. Article 5 of the Washington Treaty provides that if a NATO Ally is the victim of an armed attack, each and every other member of the Alliance will consider this act of violence as an armed attack against all members and will take the actions it deems necessary to assist the Ally attacked. Article 5 was invoked only once in NATO's history after the 9/11 terrorist attacks against the United States.

Kampanyas

Neither Ukraine nor its supporters threaten Russia's 'security interests'. Russia's Cold War mentality of dividing the world in 'spheres of interest' is deeply rooted in Russia's belief in zero-sum politics, not rules based international order

EU vs DiSiNFO

Don't be deceived when the Kremlin tries to deny Ukraine's sovereign foreign policy choices

DiSiNFO

"The 'war economy' has not affected other sectors of Russian economy."

Russia's industrial output is largely driven by sectors linked to the war, at the expense of consumer-related industries. War-related sectors are booming while many civilian ones are either stagnating or declining, missing out on badly needed investment and modernisation options. Reminiscent of Soviet times, the Russian regime is prioritising the production of weapons over consumer goods for ordinary Russians.

DEFINE

Fake news

Inaccurate, sensationalist, misleading information. The term "fake news" has strong political connotations and is woefully inaccurate to describe the complexity of the issues at stake. Hence, at EUvsDisinfo we prefer more precise definitions of the phenomenon (e.g. disinformation, information manipulation).

WHAT IS DISINFORMATION?

And why should you care?

Some would say that disinformation, or lying, is a part of human interaction. White lies, blatant lies, falsifications, "alternative facts"; propaganda has followed humankind throughout our history. Even the snake in the garden of Eden lied to Adam and Eve!
